

ANNUAL REPORT 2019

Enabling community, corporate and government action
to reduce plastic waste

THE PLASTIC FREE FOUNDATION

Our Vision:
A world without plastic waste

Our Mission:
Build a global movement that dramatically reduces plastic use and improves recycling

Starting out in 2011 as a local initiative of the Western Metropolitan Regional Council in Western Australia, the Plastic Free July challenge has rapidly grown into a global movement engaging millions of people in more than 170 countries around the world.

The campaign encourages citizens and businesses to change their behaviour in favour of avoiding single-use plastics and reducing plastic waste.

To enable us to support the growing global reach of the campaign and the plastic free movement, in 2017 Plastic Free July transitioned to the Plastic Free Foundation Ltd.

The Plastic Free Foundation Ltd is a registered charity with the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission and is registered internationally with the Charities Aid Foundation of America.

The 2018-19 report includes relevant achievements that occurred during the financial year and also includes the impact of Plastic Free July 2019, to provide the most current insights.

The financial statements for year 1 July 2018 – 30 June 2019 are available on our website.

In memory of the wonderful Matthew Dwyer (1968–2019) whose photographs told our story.

CHAIR'S MESSAGE

The last year has been an incredibly exciting period for the Plastic Free Foundation.

The organisation is growing from strength to strength in terms of its reach across Australia and also the world. Additionally, the cumulative impact of the change in people's behaviours in relation to single-use plastics has become significant.

I would like to acknowledge funding received from the state government of Western Australia that has been critical for our development and growing impact.

As the Foundation matures, so too do our systems and measures and now, more than ever, we are able to evaluate the real impacts Plastic Free July is having. This evidence based approach incorporates behaviour change best practice and enables us to measure success and continuously improve the Plastic Free July campaign and our services to increase our impact.

As a direct result of these successes, the Foundation has found traction for achieving its mission at a larger scale through both government and the private sector.

The next focus is to consolidate our position as the market leader in our field, and to secure our next growth steps for impact with funding sources from the private sector.

People worldwide are increasingly concerned with the impact humanity is having on the natural environment. They are looking for leadership and a way to participate in making a meaningful difference. We believe that the Plastic Free Foundation can provide both.

I would like to express our sincere thanks on behalf of the Board to everyone who has supported the Foundation thus far, and we look forward to continuing on this journey with you towards a world without plastic waste.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Plastic is increasingly in the news and dealing with waste was one of the top three environmental issues of concern to people worldwide in 2019.

Plastic pollution is increasing and our recycling systems are being challenged. This makes waste avoidance more important than ever and we, as an organisation, have an important role in this.

After extensive consultation the Foundation created a new online platform for Plastic Free July 2019 to share resources, ideas, and stories and even better help people to reduce single-use plastic waste in their homes and communities. Inbuilt evaluation tools help participants discover the plastics in their life and measure their success as well as allowing us to track the trends in the common plastics that households use.

We were proud to launch the Plastic Free July 2019 campaign on 1 July at Kings Park with Western Australian Environment Minister, the Hon Stephen Dawson MLC, who also pledged his own personal plastic free challenge.

Plastic Free July is a collaborative effort with participants not only changing their own behaviour and reducing waste but also making a difference in their communities.

From humble beginnings in 2011 the challenge has grown to over 250 million people taking part in Plastic Free July globally in 2019.

Our thanks goes to all our partners, inaugural 2019 Challenge sponsors, members and donors who all provided generous financial support.

I'd like to pay special thanks to the whole team behind Plastic Free July and everyone who had input for their creativity, commitment and hard work under tight deadlines. My particular thanks goes to Craig Salt for helping us define our strategy.

We look forward to creating a cleaner future together and sincerely thank everyone who has joined our journey to date.

- inclusiveness of people, ideas, visions and approaches
- solutions-focused using a pragmatic approach
- being authentic in our approach to achieve our vision and mission
- collaboration is key
- a belief that small changes add up to make a big difference

2018–19 IN ACTION

This year has seen significant achievements in strategic planning for the Foundation including brand development, public outreach and engagement in waste reduction strategies.

BRAND DEVELOPMENT

We worked with design company Media on Mars to develop a new brand identity and website to better support our participants through their plastic free journey. To understand and be able to meet the needs of users, an intensive research phase including stakeholder consultation was undertaken.

User research found people wanted to know about solutions not problems, including what other people were doing to avoid single-use plastic. Utilising the findings from the research and being focused on supporting measurable impact, a new website was designed along with a series of practical resources, case studies and videos for participants to use and share with others.

The new look campaign and website was launched on World Environment Day, 5 June 2019.

PUBLIC OUTREACH

Continuing to spread education and provide expertise in waste reduction and behaviour change, the Foundation conducted over 25 presentations at conferences, business events and educational institutions internationally.

Highlights during the year included presenting at Progress 2019 in Melbourne and presentations to key businesses, events and government in Auckland, Canberra, Melbourne, Perth, Stockholm and Sydney. In July, thanks to a sponsorship from reusable product company Onya, Executive Director, Rebecca Prince-Ruiz embarked on a speaking tour of California where she presented in Los Angeles and San Francisco, including at the office of Snap and

The Nature Conservancy. Of special mention was the Australian Marine Sciences Association conference where Rebecca Prince-Ruiz delivered the public lecture and also worked with conference organisers in the lead up, helping them to make the conference plastic free for the 570 delegates.

This year Plastic Free July campaign provided free resources to over 5,000 schools and 20,000 community organisations and businesses to empower change locally.

WASTE REDUCTION STRATEGIES

As a leader in waste reduction strategy, the Foundation was invited to provide input into the development of a number of inquiries, strategies and policies at a state and national level including the Australian Government National Waste Policy.

The Plastic Free Foundation worked with a growing number of businesses to reduce plastic waste in their operations. A partnership with WasteMINZ increased participation and behaviour change for waste avoidance across New Zealand which led to a 40% increase in participation from individuals and organisations.

MEASURING OUR IMPACT

The Plastic Free Foundation is working towards a world without plastic waste.

As a campaign designed to enable behaviour change and deliver measurable effects on global waste reduction, the Foundation prioritised and invested in significant research to obtain data driven insights and measure the real impact.

In late 2018, Plastic Free July commissioned the Melbourne office of Ipsos, an international research company, to undertake a global survey.

Respondents from 26 countries worldwide participated in the online survey. Of those people, 29% of them were aware of the Plastic Free July challenge and 13% had participated. The participation figures translated into 120 million participants worldwide in 2018.

In 2019 we built on the global study by designing a three year Evaluation Plan. The impacts measured through our evaluation plan track:

- behaviour change amongst registered participants
- behaviour change across the general population
- engagement (reach) across the globe

This approach to data driven evaluation sets the Foundation apart with capacity to measure impact and implement continuous improvement of our campaign strategy and services and be a leading organisation in behaviour change and waste reduction.

The reach and impact of Plastic Free July combines to deliver significant effects on reducing global waste. In 2019 250 million participants adopted new plastic avoidance behaviours, saving hundreds of millions of kilograms of waste and resources.

PLASTIC FREE JULY AROUND THE GLOBE

Significantly, Plastic Free July 2019 reached a wider audience and became increasingly mainstream as organisations and businesses increasingly took the challenge. A true global campaign with participants in 177 countries, here is a small insight to their stories.

Australia New Zealand New Caledonia International

THE ZOO AND AQUARIUM ASSOCIATION

The Zoo and Aquarium Association (ZAA) joined locations worldwide to celebrate Plastic Free July including staff activities, pledges, plastic reduction initiatives and educational exhibits to creatively engage their large number of visitors.

In New Caledonia, the Michel Corbasson Zoological and Forest park participated in Plastic Free July to raise local awareness through a visual installation in support of a ban on single-use plastics in New Caledonia.

SEA LIFE Sydney Aquarium replaced a tank of jellyfish, with plastic that was collected from Sydney Harbour and revealed it to stunned guests.

Zoos Victoria marked the start of Plastic Free July by blowing bubbles for their animals raising awareness about balloon litter and asking the public to replace balloons with wildlife friendly alternatives.

Single-use plastic is a highly topical and visible issue for us and our customers, so we're really pleased to be able to share this progress to celebrate Plastic Free July

ANNA PALAIRET
AIR NEW ZEALAND'S ACTING HEAD OF SUSTAINABILITY

New Zealand

AIR NEW ZEALAND

A major highlight during the year came via Air New Zealand which, to mark Plastic Free July, increased the number of single-use plastic items it committed to remove from its operations this year by more than double, from 24 million to nearly 55 million items. The airline also removed individual plastic water bottles from some services.

This was estimated to divert more than 460,000 bottles from landfill for the year, as well as reduce carbon emissions by more than 300,000 kilograms per year by reducing aircraft weight.

Air New Zealand's actions were part of a groundswell of participation by citizens and organisations across the country, facilitated by Plastic Free Foundation's partnership with WasteMINZ, funded by the NZ government.

Thank you Plastic Free July for giving our lives more meaning, for a month we belonged to a community, bound by purpose to reduce plastic, focused on change and telling powerful stories.
We can do better every month.

DR JENNY GRAY, CEO ZOOS VICTORIA

Plastic Free July brought our team together for communal lunches and sparked great conversations, with customers and suppliers, but also into our homes, about the challenges and opportunities of living single-use free.

KEEPCUP

KeepCup took further steps on their plastic free journey this July in their offices internationally by buying fruit for the office to shift snacking away from packaged treats and switching to milk in reusable glass bottles. The office also supplied reusable bread bags and communal lunch boxes.

Staff engagement in Plastic Free July included holding lunches across their UK, USA and Australian offices and planning meals together without the need to use plastic.

During July, at a community event held in Los Angeles, Rebecca Prince-Ruiz and representatives from KeepCup, Onya and the Plastic Pollution Coalition brought information and awareness of plastic issues in a public panel forum.

USA

STATE OF NEW YORK

17 Jun 2019. New York. Governor Andrew M. Cuomo proclaimed July 2019 as Plastic Free Month in the State of New York.

Governor Cuomo stated; Plastic Free July continue(s) to accentuate the importance of being green and continuing to reduce the amount of plastic we use in our lives.

In recognition of the great accomplishments of the Plastic Free July initiative, an educational and reaffirming month-long challenge is held across New York State.

North Pacific

THE VORTEX SWIM

Ben LeComte from The Vortex Swim continued his swimming mission to raise awareness of plastic pollution in our oceans that threaten marine life and the health of the planet.

Whilst onboard, Ben and the crew all participated in Plastic Free July. Ben posted a video of his personal challenge to swim as many miles as possible during the month to inspire people to use less plastic during their daily lives.

Ben's efforts saw him swim through the North Pacific Gyre during July 2019.

"There is no silver bullet. We need everyone to be part of the solution" Ben LeComte.
